A Sentence Sermon

"It should be the work of a genuine and noble patriotism to raise the life of the nation to the level of its privileges; to harmonize its general practice with its abstract principles; to reduce to actual facts the ideals of its institutions; to elevate instruction into knowledge; to deepen knowledge into wisdom; to render knowledge and wisdom complete in righteousness; and to make the love of country perfect in the love of man."—Henry Giles.

Our Fourth Birthday

Volume IV, Number 52, reads the date line on the front page of this week's Bulloch Herald. This means that this week we are four years old. Four short years ago two young men and a high school lad lit a torch and dedicated its light to the progress of Statesboro and Bulloch county. Today, our fourth birthday, finds that torch still burning brightly, and The Bulloch Herald recognized not only as a good newspaper, but as one of the best in the state.

Beginning with nothing but an honest and zealous desire to be of service to the people in this section, and the will to work, the publishers of the Bulloch Herald in four years have developed it from infancy to its present recognized position. Cited five times for honors, including the Hal M Stanley Trophy for the best typographically made up newspaper in the state, by the Georgia Press Association in convention in August 1940, the Herald now holds an enviable position in Georgia.

The Merchants Council

We feel that the local Chamber of Commerce has made a wise move when it named a Merchant's Council.

Heretofore there had been a group of the Statesboro merchants and business men who assembled only upon call to decide questions as to closing hours, summer half-holidays, and similar matters. The group was always small with comparatively few of the businesses represented. In order that every merchant be given a chance to express himself on any matter, a petition had to be carried around or a committee named to call on every merchant to get his reaction to a question. Such a method was never satisfactory.

Now, with a Merchant's Council operating within the Chamber of Commerce such matters may be quickly handled with considerably more satisfaction all around.

Every merchant with a business in Statesboro should become a member of his Chamber of Commerce. Oftentimes the businesses that profit most from the organization's activities are those who are not members. The cost is small compared to the benefits to be derived from a membership.

And now that the Merchant's Council has been named it is indeed to every business man's interest that he become a member of the organization so that he may be completely represented, and may speak his turn if things do not suit him.

March 15... Headache Day

March 15... a date which means headaches for more people this year than ever before. During the weeks before that date you and you and you will be filling out your first Federal income tax return. Last year if you were married and earned more than $2,500 or were unmarried and earned more than $1,000 you filed a return. This year if you are married and earned more than $2,000 or unmarried and earned more than $800 you will file a return.

The Cotton Stamp plan

The AAA has dreamed up another one. T. R. Breedlove, administrative officer of the AAA in Georgia, has informed Bulloch county farmers that those who voluntarily reduce their cotton acreage in 1941 will receive a share of $25,000,000 in federal cotton stamps exchangeable in retail stores for any merchandise made entirely of cotton grown and manufactured in the United States.

Cotton piece goods, women's dresses and housecoats, men's shirts and pants, children's and infant's clothes, sheets, blankets, work gloves, and stockings, are but a few of the articles cotton farmers may buy with the stamps.

Under the program, a farmer who voluntarily reduces his acreage below the 1941 allotment or the 1940 measured acreage, whichever is smaller, will receive cotton stamps at the rate of 10 cents a pound, times the normal yield of his unplanted acreage.

Share-croppers, tenants or owner-operators may receive up to $25 worth of stamps for co-operating in the program, and producers on more than one farm or of a farm operated with two or more tenants, may qualify for a maximum of $50 worth of stamps. Any acreage reduction made will not affect cotton allotments in 1942 or any subsequent year.

That's one way to increase domestic use of cotton goods and its going to take a lot of domestic consumption to use up the close to 12 million bales of cotton stored with the government.

Into Sharp Focus

Every day we read the daily newspapers and listen to the radio broadcasts, being reminded constantly of the truth in Sherman's statement, "War is Hell." We know that as Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones expressed it to a House Committee in Washington: "We're in the war, or at least nearly in the war... we're preparing for it."

All the while we are aware of the war going on in Europe and the Far East but we think of it as being far away and not touching us except indirectly. Then suddenly it is brought home close to us.

B. W. Shelnutt, Jr., a Statesboro youth, only twenty-three years old, a member of the Royal Canadian Airforce, on his way to Nova Scotia, not knowing but that in a few weeks he will be on his way to England to take his place in the Battle of Britain.

A Bulloch gentleman, an American, who wants to aid Britain because he hates Hitler and the things for which he stands, brings the war into sharp focus for us, where before we were only vaguely aware of it.

Recognition of the Teachers College breaks out in a brand new place. In the February issue of The School Musician, a publication for musicians, appears an article, together with a picture featuring Lambuth Key and His Professors. Good going boys!

WITH OTHER EDITORS

RISE WITH THE DAWN

One finds some of the best people up town between six and seven a. m. "of a morning"; industrious and hard-working folk who have climbed just a little bit higher on the ladder of success than their neighbors.

You will more than likely find them at the drug store sipping hot coffee and eating a few scrambled eggs. They are up and there because they want to take advantage of two of the best and most productive hours of the day, between six and eight o'clock.

These lines are written at 6:30, but that doesn't imply we are to be classed among those of whom we have just written. It's rising early every morning for just what we like you and the rest of the "laxbones"; get our regular start later.

It's only when work piles about three feet high on the desk and we're behind with the daily grind, that we arise to meet the dawn with the idea in mind of "catching up."

But getting down to the real purpose of this "essay on early hours," we wish to recommend the aforesaid mentioned time as the best of the twenty-four for real and honest-to-goodness concentration. If you retire in the evening at a reasonable hour, we assure you that after a good cup of hot coffee at six o'clock in the morning, your mind will be clear as a bell and the most perplexing and brain-twisting problems may be solved with ease.

We have tried it on numerous occasions and have found that our most productive work is accomplished in the early morn.

However, even if you don't have any heavy brainwork on your hands, you will find some excellent gentlemen over their coffee cup at this hour with good conversation in the offing—Douglas Enterprises.

A SPRING TONIC

BY GRADY FUTCH

We have the feeling that there is going to be a lot of spring fever this year. We were complaining about it up in the county agent's office last Saturday and Grady Futch, who was there up and said, "Why man alive, I got a recipe for the best spring tonic you ever took... and if you take too much of it, it will make you feel like eternal spring." Give out," said he. He gave.

Grady calls his spring tonic "Barker's Tonic." His recipe calls for sassafras roots, sassafras roots, dogwood tree bark, cherry tree bark, red oak tree bark and poplar tree bark. The strength of the tonic depends upon the amount of roots and bark of each tree used. Take all these roots and barks and cover them with water in a big pot and boil six hours, or until the whole brew is a dark red, "red" and that it is almost black," advised Grady. You then add between one-quarter and one-third syrup. You now put it all in a "sour keg" and go off and forget it for three months to allow it to "germinate."

According to Grady, the red oak bark gives the tonic its beautiful, deep red coloring; the sassafras roots add a tinge of bitterness which is the zest in the tonic; the poplar bark will "draw your mouth" if you use too much, and the dogwood bark is the "germinating agent" says Grady. If we are to believe Grady, this tonic, when taken three times a day, a tumbler full each time, will make a person "eat up hedges" and "kick up a fuss" and "give out" on the tumbler's side himself.

But he vows that it's the best spring tonic a man can take. We have already made arrangements for the sassafras roots—we have the sassafras roots and all the barks. We are not going to let Spring slip up on us and us not prepared.

A LESSON IN GEORGIA HISTORY Jack Murphy let us in on a little Georgia history last week. Few of us younger folk realized that it was through Jack's efforts that we now have a state game law.

It was in the years 1911-12 when he was in the Georgia Legislature that Jack, in collaboration with three others, drew up Jack, "is the man for us."

Jack is worried about Bulloch county. He wants to see Zack Cravey give Bulloch county a game warden. He even has the man selected who would make a good one, "Andrew Wilson," says Jack.

Fireside Health Chat

WHAT IS MEASLES?

Measles is a dangerous and very contagious disease. The first signs of measles are sneezing, running at the nose, and a slight cough. The eyes look red and watery and the light hurts them.

It is during this period that others are most liable to catch the disease. The child may appear to have only a cold. But the mother who sends her child to school or allows him to play in the street at this time is helping to spread the disease to other children.

In the beginning there is little fever. In a day or two the skin becomes hot, the tongue becomes covered by a furry coating and the throat grows very red. About the fourth day, red spots begin to appear on the forehead and behind the ears and spread rapidly over the neck and the entire body. The spots collect in large red blotches and usually itch.

The following are a few rules to follow if there is any suspicion that the child may be contracting measles:

1. As soon as your child shows the first signs of measles, if he sneezes and coughs and if his eyes are red and watery, keep the child out of school—indoors, in a light airy room—and away from other children.
2. Call the doctor without delay. He will give your child the proper treatment.
3. Protect the child's eyes from direct bright lights or glare.
4. Be sure to follow your doctor's directions for keeping your child's eyes, ears, mouth and nostrils perfectly clean. Discharges from the nose, mouth and running ears should be carefully gathered in clean rags or soft paper tissues and burned. Measles can easily be caught through the disease germs the sick person spreads by talking or coughing. For this reason only the doctor and the person who is nursing the patient should enter the sick room.

After the rash fades, the skin begins to flake off in the form of fine branlike scales. This scaling may last for several days to a few weeks. Although children are more likely to catch the disease, adults, too, sometimes develop measles. In adult cases, the disease is even more serious.

Do not let the child get up until the doctor says it is safe, and take him to the doctor again in a few months, to make certain there are no bad after-effects.

Friendship

He is a friend whose eyes can see into the secret darkened corners of your soul.

And knowing the things you feel, the things you do, Can love you still and keep his friendship whole.

He is a friend whose thoughts are fixed upon Your cares and joys as though they were his own.

Who never counts his obligations done, Though grief and hardship bring him to the bone.

Friendship is not for cautious, little men Who crave the rose but curse its thorny stem,

Who clasp your hand, but drop you quickly when Your friendship can no longer protect them.

Friendship is for the strong, the true, the brave, Whose hearts are singing with you to the grave.

NO NEED FOR DANGER SIGNS ON A MODERN CONCRETE ROAD

Concrete pavements, built to the standards developed by highway engineers of this state, are the last word in safety. Yet they actually cost the public less than so-called "cheap" pavements.

"Concrete is safe because it provides a better 'track' for vehicles. From your own experience you know that its even, gritty surface reduces skidding, wet weather or dry. Its freedom from bumps, ruts and chackholes gives you better control at the wheel. Concrete's light gray color and high reflection factor help you see better at night. Yet, with all these advantages, concrete is actually the cheapest road to have. First, because it costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. Second, because concrete costs less to maintain—saves hundreds of dollars per mile, every year, compared with less enduring surfaces. Urge public officials to build your roads with safe and saving concrete.

Echoes from the wedding of the bride and all, and Mary Sue Atkins, our home town girl, scored a hit in a symphony blue costume suit. Frank and Anne left their car in Statesboro and came from Waynesboro after the wedding with Mary Sue and Charlie Joe Matthews. This eventful trip required two hours on the road. Martha Wilma Simmons with her car packed with friends and well-wishers and Horace McDougald with his sport model coupe with more friends intercepted the bride and groom on the way and lovingly and tenderly nuzzled it onto the shoulders from time to time. All of which they say was fun. Anyway, later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hook left for parts unknown—supposedly Charleston.

the bus for Atlanta she presented a pulse-stirring picture in a regulation Navy cut buttoned down front with brass buttons with dress to match. A navy blue pompadour hat completed her charming costume. We just know Frances will "mow 'em down" up there. By the way, get Dr. Deal to tell you about Sally Rand's visit to the Legislative halls—we would, but we have to observe certain restrictions in this column.

Members of the cast of "Quality Street" gave an outstanding performance at the college last week. No doubt the boys are glad that it is over, so they can get a hair cut. They know now how to sympathize with Clark Gable who had to go unshorn for so long in order to achieve a Rhet Butler "hair do." Our boys were quite handsome, with wavy hair and sideburns.

A slightly wilted orchid and a go key with Sigma Chi emblem on it and a whole treasure chest of memories is all Carmen Cowart has left of that wonderful week end at the Emory Winter frolics. The orchid went to school on Monday morning and all of Carmen's class mates were positively green-eyed over the key. Carmen attended the masquerade ball at the Shrine Mosque in her majorette uniform. A periwinkle blue dress carried her through the tea dance and swirling, twirling yards of egg shell chiffon and an orchid in her hair made her an exquisite figure at the coronation dance.

Girls—it's up to you to get a Sigma Chi all in readiness for the future Winter Frolics at Emory. Anyway, Carmen, we are glad you got to go, so we could learn they were like.

As over, JANE.

Red was the predominant color motif that was emphasized in the decorations and refreshments and the predominating flowers were red carnations. The lace covered buffet table was gracefully centered with a silver bowl filled with narcissi and red carnations flanked by tall red tapers in silver holders. Mrs. W. H. Ellis and Mrs. Bruce Cluff seated at each end of the table served the guests. Fitting in beautifully with the Savannah theme the supper menu consisting of baked ham garnished with pimento strips, chicken salad in individual molds with red center, oysters on casserole, grits au gratin, potato chips, hot rolls, peach pickles, tea and coffee and for dessert the guests were served red slipper cream, fancy mints and salted nuts.

4-H Girls Bid For '41 Stock Show Honors

The winner of the coveted honors in the fat stock show April 3 may be a 4-H club girl. At least the girls are making their strongest bid for the big prizes this year.

Boyette Joyce Allen, from West Side, has two Hereford steers which will show at about 1,000 pounds each. They are definitely in the running for top honors now.

Gene Hendrix, another West Side club girl, is also to be counted in the prize money with some lighter steers.

Jackie Knight is using a calf she raised to try for the championship. She is also a new comer to the show circuit.

Two old timers, as far as the fat stock shows go, Jacqueline and Martha Rose Bowen, have their best cattle ready for the 1941 show. They are ready to take on all comers this year and firmly believe they are worthy to be best for the grand championship.

These 4-H club girls have fed, groomed and cared for their calves personally. They are just as much interested in the showing of cattle as any of the boys. They do not ask any favors in the showing. To them, fitting and showing these calves is a business matter and they expect to win on the merits of the job they have done with their cattle.
